Figure 1 is a line graph showing the percentage of the total sample for each age group across different years. The Y-axis represents the 'PERCENTAGE OF TOTAL SAMPLE' from 0 to 100. The X-axis represents the 'YEAR' from 1960 to 2000. The legend identifies eight age groups: 0-14, 15-24, 25-34, 35-44, 45-54, 55-64, 65-74, and 75+. The 0-14 age group shows a steady decline from approximately 15% in 1960 to 5% in 2000. The 15-24 age group peaks at 15% in 1970 and declines to 5% in 2000. The 25-34 age group peaks at 15% in 1980 and declines to 5% in 2000. The 35-44 age group peaks at 15% in 1990 and declines to 5% in 2000. The 45-54 age group peaks at 15% in 2000. The 55-64 age group peaks at 15% in 2000. The 65-74 age group peaks at 15% in 2000. The 75+ age group peaks at 15% in 2000.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods of determining the rate of reaction. The author discusses the methods of initial rates, the method of integrated rate laws, and the method of half-lives. He also discusses the method of plotting the logarithm of the rate against the concentration of the reactants.
2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various factors which influence the rate of reaction. The author discusses the effect of temperature, concentration, and catalysts on the rate of reaction. He also discusses the effect of the physical state of the reactants on the rate of reaction.
3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various theories of reaction rates. The author discusses the collision theory, the transition state theory, and the steady state theory. He also discusses the effect of the activation energy on the rate of reaction.
4. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various applications of reaction rate theory. The author discusses the application of reaction rate theory to the study of chemical kinetics, to the study of the mechanism of reaction, and to the study of the effect of various factors on the rate of reaction.
5. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various experimental methods for determining the rate of reaction. The author discusses the method of initial rates, the method of integrated rate laws, and the method of half-lives. He also discusses the method of plotting the logarithm of the rate against the concentration of the reactants.
6. The sixth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various factors which influence the rate of reaction. The author discusses the effect of temperature, concentration, and catalysts on the rate of reaction. He also discusses the effect of the physical state of the reactants on the rate of reaction.
7. The seventh part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various theories of reaction rates. The author discusses the collision theory, the transition state theory, and the steady state theory. He also discusses the effect of the activation energy on the rate of reaction.
8. The eighth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various applications of reaction rate theory. The author discusses the application of reaction rate theory to the study of chemical kinetics, to the study of the mechanism of reaction, and to the study of the effect of various factors on the rate of reaction.
9. The ninth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various experimental methods for determining the rate of reaction. The author discusses the method of initial rates, the method of integrated rate laws, and the method of half-lives. He also discusses the method of plotting the logarithm of the rate against the concentration of the reactants.
10. The tenth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various factors which influence the rate of reaction. The author discusses the effect of temperature, concentration, and catalysts on the rate of reaction. He also discusses the effect of the physical state of the reactants on the rate of reaction.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β .

2. In the second part we consider the case of a linear system of equations (1) with constant coefficients. In this case the problem of the existence of a solution is solved explicitly.

3. In the third part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with constant coefficients. In this case the problem of the existence of a solution is solved explicitly.

4. In the fourth part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with variable coefficients.

5. In the fifth part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with variable coefficients and a nonhomogeneous term.

6. In the sixth part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with variable coefficients and a nonhomogeneous term. In this case the problem of the existence of a solution is solved explicitly.

7. In the seventh part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with variable coefficients and a nonhomogeneous term. In this case the problem of the existence of a solution is solved explicitly.

8. In the eighth part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with variable coefficients and a nonhomogeneous term.

9. In the ninth part we consider the case of a nonlinear system of equations (1) with variable coefficients and a nonhomogeneous term. In this case the problem of the existence of a solution is solved explicitly.

 are not stationary.

The first of these is the fact that the data are not normally distributed. The second is that the data are not independent. The third is that the data
 are not stationary.

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β .

2. In the second part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

3. In the third part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

4. In the fourth part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

5. In the fifth part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

6. In the sixth part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

7. In the seventh part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

8. In the eighth part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

9. In the ninth part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.

10. In the tenth part, the problem of the existence of a solution of the system of equations (1) for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β is solved. It is shown that the system of equations (1) has a solution for arbitrary values of the parameters α and β if and only if the condition $\alpha + \beta = 1$ is satisfied.
